

Who teaches the Diploma?

The course is organised by the British Law Centre, an educational foundation based at the University of Cambridge's Faculty of Law. Lectures, classes and workshops are delivered by an experienced teaching team of expert English lawyers. Additional workshops are available, taught by some of the BLC's law firm partners.

What will I learn?

- Core elements of English substantive law: the constitution and legal system; contract law; tort law; trusts law (plus elements of criminal law and civil/criminal procedure).
- A range of legal skills including: legal writing; negotiations; drafting; oral presentations and advocacy.

How is it taught?

A combination of pre-recorded lectures, small-group classes, workshops and practical exercises deliver a practical approach which focuses on learning-by-doing and continuous skills development. We teach you how to apply legal knowledge to real-life scenarios.

When does it begin/end?

October 2026 – June 2027.

Each of the BLC locations has its own calendar, with precise dates indicated.

Diploma in English Law & Legal Skills

Learn core English law subjects and a range of legal skills

www.BritishLawCentre.co.uk

APPLY NOW

Where is it taught?

At your Faculty! The BLC teachers visit especially to teach the course. Some elements of the course are taught online.

How much does it cost?

Earlybird students (who pay by 30 June) pay €750. Otherwise €850. Instalment payments are possible. For details, see fees information.

APPLY NOW

www.BritishLawCentre.co.uk/Apply

How many study hours does it require?

You'll have 32 hours (8x4hr) of small-group classes with BLC teachers, in one class each month. Before classes, you can watch video lectures and read written materials on the BLC's website. There are over 150 hours of lectures available, delivered by leading English lawyers and academics.

