This research output brings a new, until now in the context of Slovak jurisprudence comprehensively undeveloped issue of limping parentage in Slovak private international law. It offers a view of the legal regulation of these relations from the point of view of Slovak private international law, points out the shortcomings of the current legal regulation (e.g. the absence of unified rules at the regional or global level, the use of one conflict criterion without the possibility of taking into account the closer connection of the situation to another legal order in all relevant cases) and proposes their solution (specifically, changes in conflict-of-law regulations, use of the escape clause in the Slovak MPS). The output also offers a comparative view of the legislation of selected European states. This scientific knowledge would be original in other countries under similar legal conditions.

This contribution analyzes the legal regulation of the recognition and enforcement of foreign decisions in matters of parental rights and obligations based on the Brussels IIa Regulation and the Brussels IIb Regulation in the context of the Slovak procedural legal regulation of the enforcement of decisions. From the point of view of Slovak law, this is the first comprehensive elaboration of the answers to the questions, to what extent and in what way the mentioned regulations interfere with the own enforcement procedure according to the Slovak procedural regulations. The contribution was published as part of the output dedicated to the effectiveness of the execution of the decision in matters of court care of minors after the re-codification of the civil process, thus placing procedural issues in the broader context of international procedural law. This scientific knowledge would be original in other countries under similar legal conditions.

The contribution is the first comprehensive elaboration of the question of the relationship between the Brussels Ia regulation and arbitration proceedings in the conditions of the Slovak Republic. The authors offer answers to the questions of how the revised regulation approaches the situation where the validity of the arbitration agreement is challenged in the courts of various EU member states, does the regulation allow Brussels Ia anti-suit injunction? and how the revised regulation deals with the situation that the same matter, for which the arbitration agreement was validly concluded, was decided differently by the court/courts of the member state/s and possibly and the arbitration court and offered their own perspective and contribution to the discussion on these debatable issues. This original scientific knowledge can be fully used in other EU countries as well.
